General Dominguez had been proclaimed President of Northern Hayti, and General Nissage Saget, President of Southern Hayti. The prospects of Salnave were daily improving. He had given the town of St. Marks one week to surrender. The ship-of-war Alexandre Pëtion had been sent there to assist in the siege. Should the place surrender the communication of the revolutionists will be severed. The officers and crew of the Alexandre Pétion are all Americans and are looked upon with distrust by the Haytiens.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20, 1868. cratic Change of Front-Cabin

Many little developments made here within the past day or two indicate that the political hurly burly is concentrating in New York city. The simultaneous flight of a multitude of wire pullers in that direction and the fact that no less than three members of the Cabinet have found urgent business there are certainly significant of something mor than usual. Yesterday the evening train carried of Secretary Seward and Attorney General Evarts, and Postmaster General Randall went on Sunday. The first goes to task over the interoceanic ship canal, the second to straighten out a few kinks in the third to settle some matters in connection with mail contracts; but all three of them will have a word to say about the new popular movement for a change of front. Secretary Seward and Attorney General Evarts are expected to return here to-morrow.

Republican Celebration—Negro Disturbance—
Police Officers Beaten.

A torchlight procession paraded the streets tonight in honor of the recent republican triumphs. Several disturbances occurred along the line of march, in which two members of the police force of the district were severely beaten in endeavoring to preserve order. The disorderly parties were negroes separate from the procession, and the immediate cause of the difficulties was an attempt to demolish the fruit stands along Pennsylvania avenue when the parade was in progress. Officer Rath was struck several times with a club near the Treasury Department, while attempting to arrest one of the disorderly parties. Another officer of the police was severely duty. The report of riotous conduct soon reached the Police Headquarters, and Major Richards was promptly on hand to prevent further disturbance. At this hour—half-past eleven o'clock—there are no further reports of difficulty. The wounded officers have received medical attention and are doing well. The Hitch in the Appointment of Supervisors. Secretary McCulloch and Commissioner Rollins still hold their protracted meetings for the purpose of converting nominations into appointments, but they make very slow work of it at the best. The last meeting, it is said, developed the fact that Mr. Tracy, who was recently nominated for Supervisor in New York, is entirely too radical to make a good supervisor, so we may regard his case as settled. Mr. Noah, of Tennessee, is here with his friends, feeling around for the nomination of Supervisor for the district which includes that State. There is no near prospect of hearing that another Supervisor has been confirmed.

The response to the call of the Republican Executive Committee upon the clerks and employes of the Executive Department is said to be both prompt and satisfactory. In the United States Treasurer's office there was contributed to-day $950, of which the reloubtable Spinner contributed $300. It may not be amiss to add that this sum was raised among the male clerks, the ladies not deeming themselves included in the invitation.

AMUSEMENTS.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.-There is a charm about this establishment which succeeds in drawing thither night after night large and brilliant audiences. No matter man large and brilliant audiences. No matter what may be on the bills the public understands that there is a company of unsurpassed artists ready to affort them amusement and entire satisfaction. In addition to the standard attractions of the place the announcement that Tobin's beautiful and pleasing comedy of the "Honeymoon" would be given last consider a different contractions. would be given last evening aided materially, per haps, in filling the auditorium. This play possesses and excellence of a company such as Wallack's. J. W. Wallack appeared in the leading part, Duke Aranza, and, in all justice, it must be said he did not play it as it could or as it should be played. In-Aranza, and, in all justice, it must be said he did not p lay it as it could or as it should be played. Instead of the quiet, determined air and studied non-chalance which the author evidentily intended to mark the part of the Duke, Mr. Wallack gave an intensely heavy, melodramatic representation, or rather misrepresentation, of the character, moutting and drawling out the beautiful sentiments which abound in the dialogue so much that, at times, evidences of general dissatisfaction were plainly perceptible among the audience. Miss Rose Eytinge was charming in the chareter of Juliana, the subject of the taming process, and read and acted in most finished style. Messrs, Fisher, Holland, Polk and Young, as well as the ladies of the company, it is almost needless to say, were exceedingly truthful in their dialogue and business. Mr. J. H. Stoddart's personation of the mock duke was one of the most superb pieces of eccentric acting that could well be found. This fact the entire audience appreclated, and greeted his playing with such prolonged and genuine applause that he was compelled to appear and bow his acknowledgments before the performance could progress. The stage mechanics came in for a share of good natured applause for some very amusing but rather awkward biunders, allowing a wood scene to remain some fifteen or twenty seconds after the characters had gone off, and then leaving two huge trees standing in the parior of the ducal palace until the laughter and applause cailed attention to the mistake. The play passed off, however, very pleasantly, and, save the drawbacks above alluded to, was pretty good.

oill at this popular establishment this week has so far drawn the accustomed crowded houses and gives promise of like continued favor. Variety is the notto of the management here and novelty its rallying cry. In addition to changes in the programme changes likewise occur in the performers. Constancy an aristocratic vice. The east side forgets its whilom favorites quite as readily as the west. Thus devotion and admiring regard which the wearers of fustian and munchers of peanuts here once bore towards the Engel has been as loyally transferred to Miss Alice Seidier and is quite as demonstratively exhibited. Billy Emmett, Frank Kerns and Johnny Thompson gather the homage that was previously tendered their predecessors, new danseuses reviewe the meed of approbation ever generously awarded the fair by their rough but impressionable devotees; and lest it be invidiously inferred it may be said in each case with equal merit. Tony Pastor still relgas first in the hearts of his patrons, not alone for the varied feast of amusement he presents, but for his own share in making it up. A new extravaganza, entitled "1988, or New York a Hundred Years Hence," is the concluding piece this week. It is most amusing. an aristocratic vice. The east side forgets its whilom

Musical and Theatrical Notes.

Mrs. Scott Siddons, the great granddaughter of the great Mrs. Siddons, who in her day was the acknowledged tragic queen of the English stage, gives her first readings before an American audience on Monday evening next at Steinway Hall. Mrs. Scott Siddons is a young lady of much promise, and is already possessed of an English reputation as an actress that seems to challenge criticism, and it is but natural to expect that with such ancestry she must inherit great perception of dramatic art. At the early age of eleven years she made her first appearance upon the stage in a small part in the French play of "Esther," and succeeded in attracting conderable attention by her striking performance. Since then she has acted in English. French and German in the most difficult plays of Shakespeare, Schiller, Racine, Molicre, neille, &c. in person Mrs. Scott Siddons bears a strong resemblance to Fanny Kemble in her youth. She has a fine figure and manner, the Kemble face and the grace, intelligence and sympathetic character that go to make up the true histrionic artist. Owing to the fact of our principal theatres having long since completed their arrangements and engagements for the entire season there will be no chance just at present of this great tragedienne interpreting the tragic muse for our edification, surrounded with the paraphernalia of the stage; but having been pushed to the lecture hall she will interpret Shakespeare and other illustrious authors unfortunately only from a reading desk. It is more than probable that Mrs. Scott Siddons entertainments, though without the embodiment and color of the stage, will prove very successful. The sale of reserved seats and tickels will commence this morning at the box office. Steinway Hall, and at Schirmer's music store.

By private telegram per Atlantic cable we learn that Miss Kate Bateman made her appearance on Monday evening last at the Haymarket theatre, London, before an immense audience in the character of Lesh. The house was crowded from purquet to gallery and the greatest enthusiasm was manifested on the part of the audience. As this was Miss Bateman's first appearance in London after an absence of three years, it is not at all strange that her reappearance before an English audience should partake of the nature of a grand ovation, for such in fact it was. During her sojourn abroad Miss Bateman has achieved a splendid series of triumples and successes bears a strong resemblance to Fauny Kemble in her pearance before an English andience should partake of the nature of a grand ovation, for such in fact it was. During her sojourn abroad Miss Bateman has achieved a splendid series of triumphs and successes such as have rarely if ever before befallen to an American actress.

Herr Carl Formes, who for years was one of the attractive stars at the Catacombs in Fourteenth street, is reaping fresh laurels at the Dublin theatre. Of his Leporello the Daity Express observes:—"Herr Formes possesses more drollery than most Leporellos, but knows how to be solemn in the right place. He was admirably suited to the part." The same paper speaks thus of his Figaro:—"His magnificent voice has lost none of its depth, purity and power, and, although he was suffering from a severe cold, his execution was highly effective. The character is one which affords a severe test both of the vocal and histrionic powers, and its delineation was certainly such as to raise Herr Formes in the estimation of his admirers."

The annual dramatic performance for the benefit of the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum will take place to-morrow at the Academy of Music. There will be an afternoon and evening entertainment, under the direction of Mr. B. Charke, and as a good programme is offered it is expected that there will be a full house.

The New York Alhambra is the name of a new place of public entertainment, located at 616 Broadway, which will be open on Monday evening next with a good company. Mr. Harry McCarthy's personation concerts, a style of entertainment novel in this city, will form the principal attraction. The hall has been neatly fitted up and will doubtless prove an attractive resort.

THE NATIONAL GAME.

The All England Eleven vs. the Unions, of Morrisania.

The announcement that nine of the All England Eleven would contend with the Union Club, of Morrisuma, in a game of base ball had the effect of drawing to the St. George's cricket ground at Hudson City, yes than has been convened there since the day of the first appearance of the visiting Eleven. There was but little time lost in getting the ground prepared, and shortly after two o'clock the game was opened with the "Eleven" at the bat. It would be useless to attempt to give the details of the game. It was a happy, hearty contest, and the entire growd entered laughing and applauding carnestly and vociferously the good plays and the faux pas of either side. It was very evident at times that the Unions were playings that the contest would be more even and, therefore, more interesting. George Wright pitched during the greater part of the game, and pitched so that the "Eleveners" could hit and become more familiar with the use of the round bat. It was not necessary, however, for all the visiting players to have easy balls piched for them, and several specimens of sharp and heavy hitting were given. Pabor went in to pitch on the seventh innings and although sending the ball in with all his skill, Shaw made a beautiful hit to right field on which he got to third base. The "Eleveners" batted chiefly to centre field or right short, and five of them were pat out at second base by being forced from first. They do not all seem to get an idea of the points of the game, but with a good captant to train them they would, with a little practice, make splendid base ballists. Smith, who played catcher, was the very figure of a first class player. He nipped everything for which there was any chance, made several handsome catches of well judged foul bounds and allowed nothing to pass him. Willisher afforded a great deal of amnsement by his chagrined look when attempting to take foul balls on the bound and finding too late that they had a peculiarly nangity way of bounding off just the way he didn't expect them to go. In the infield the playing of the "Eleveners" was superb; their style of picking up hot grounders and catching the ball when thrown to them was very fine. In the outfield, however, they were at sea, and could not lange the files at all. Their admiration was frequently elicited by handsome catches made in the outfield on the Union side, and one catch especially, made by Pabor, several declared was the finest catch they had ever seen. The ball was hit by Smith, and Pabor was obliged to run some distance, then jump as high as he could and catch the ball drying over his head. At the bat Shaw excelled in hitting, and in general play in the field Smith and Tarrant carried off th ing so that the contest would be more even and, therefore, more interesting. George Wright pitched dur-

Race Between the Palisade and Vesper Clubs at Youkers—The Palisade Claims a "Foul," but the Verger Declared the Winner. These rivel clubs contested at Yonkers yesterday in an eight oared barge race, and, though the result was attended with considerable ambiguity, the com-petitors proved themselves oarsmen of no ordinary standing. Both club houses are beautifully situated and are surrounded by all the advantages that could possibly contribute to the proper development of the art of rowing. Withir almost halling distance of each other, it is not surprising to find that a strong desire to ensulate exists between them. Their respective mesits were part ally brought to the test yesterday, with a term unation, however, not so satisfactory as might be desired. The attendance of spectators was numerous, considering the uninviting aspect of the weather, which was cold and damp, while the bitter keenness of the wind rendered out door standing extremely disagreeable. There was, nevertheless, considerable interest manifested in the contest, and both clubs had their friends to admire their display. The plazzas were well filled with ladies, but histening to the uninterrupted chattering of their delicate teeth one would be inclined to en tertain a sympathetic feeling and wish them snugly by their parlor fresides. After some delay which could have been dispensed with the crews were seen to approach the starting point, near which a large cro vd was assembled, and as the competitors drew up in line they were greeted with a hearty cheer. The prize to be competed for was a silver bow innern. The barge Conject was entered by the Palisade Club, the following comprising the crew:—George Williams (bow), J. E. Banta, D. G. Cantrell, W. R. Myers, Isaac D. Cole, A. L. Amelung, T. R. Price, Robert Fawcett (stroke), Henry Ameling (coxswain); color, blue. The Vesper, Club entered the barge Vesper, and the crev were composed of H. Flagg (bow), C. Shepman, "Weils, J. T. Howlend, W. R. Holl, R. C. Elliott, W. Macardand, Thomas Fearon (stroke), George J. Wat'l (coxswain). For the Palisades the judges were clothed the barge very shed slightly allead, shotly pursued by the Cubb houses, was the usual one of three miles on the Hudson river. A few manutes before ten o'clock the word "Go" was given, and avay shot the competitors, after a beautiful start. At the termination of the contest the Palisade At the termination of the contest the Pausade handed in a protest, contending that the Vesper had lost the race, owing to the "foul;" but the Vesper crew making the same charge the matter was at length fully set forth before the referce, who, after occupying nearly one hour and a half tu giving the claims of both parties a proper consideration, decided in favor of the Vesper crew, all bets being off.

The International Boat Race at Springfield, Mass.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 20, 1868. All indications are favorable for the international boat race, which comes off at this city to-morrow, between the Ward brothers and the St. John's crew. The city is rapidly filling with boating and betting men, and there will be a large attendance of strangers. The betting to-night is slack, but seems to favor the Wards. William Blakle, of Boston, has been chosen referee. McKeel will pull in the wherry race, and a race of four-oared boats will follow the grand race. All indications are favorable for the international ness-viz., advertising—may not be objectionable to the fac-ulty.

Having great confidence in the articles I prepare and be-lieving it to be of great advantage to acquaint the community with their merits, I have resorted to the above course. Many, if not all druggists, have articles of their own that they claim to be meritorious. Each have their own ideas in regard to disposing of the same, but I do not believe there is one among them who, having as good a remedy as mine, would heaftate to resort to the same means. I shall not, however, precerbe or endeavor to substitute my own remedies when others are called for.

Every article purchased warranter to be of the best mate-rial. The assistants average an exper nee of over eight years in the best Broadway stores, and e-ry prescription is read by two of the assistants before compounding, and, as an additional security, is checked before delivery. I will not have those in my employ in this department whom I would not trust with my business or my life.

The approbation and patronage of the faculty and of the public are respectfully solicited. Rest assured nothing shall be neglected to deserve the same.

H. T. HELMBOLD, Druggist and Chemist. was induced to advertise his remedies from his confidence in their merits. If any are induced to follow his example with-out this important basis they can have ample opportunity of testing the intelligence of the community.

REMARKS FROM PRACTICAL OBSERVATION.

It is frequently remarked by persons passing my establishment that it is a monument to the merits of advertising. To these same persons I would here state that the great confidence I had in the merit of my articles inspired me to do so. It has now been but five years since I left my native city, where I had labored assiduously for a period of its years. This is known to all the enterprising residents of that city, many of whom remember me from my starting point a great number are now residents of the metropolis, who, I trust, can vouch for the correctness of any statement I may make.
